

Year End Product Round Up

DECEMBER 30, 2013

Funnybone Toys

Games are so much fun for kids and families. The trick can be finding games that are appropriate for a large age range. Funnybone Toys has achieved this colossal task with a large selection of incredible games that encourage thinking and creativity, are small in their (artistic) packaging and are unique. They are a true combination of form, function and beautiful minimalistic design. The games that we tried out were so cool that our 3 year old could actually play a version of them, while mom and dad could truly be entertained for hours. Disruptus asks players to look at objects and ideas and use different approaches, as determined by the roll of a die to innovate. Arrazzles lets you explore abstract geometrical configurations. Array is a colorful take on dominoes where players compete to place the highest number of multi-color cards into connecting patterns. Spectrix is a colorful take on the classic game of Rummy, played in multiple fast paced rounds. The object is to be the first player to get rid of all the cards in your hand by placing them into color sequences based on the order of colors on the Spectrix guide card or into collections of the same color. CUBU has you try to follow number and color sequences with visual illusion that leads to confusion. It forces players to use their left and right brains at the same time. Any of these games would be wonderful for a family of game-playing thinkers! $24.99, funnybonetoys.com.